

Contents

Acknowledgements	7
Chapter 1:
Introduction.....	9
Cultural Memory and Musicking Community	9
Notes on Methodology: Multi-sited Ethnography	15
The Organization of This Book.....	20
Chapter 2:
A Personal Journey into Armenian Music(s)	23
Chapter 3:
From History to Memory:
Between Forgetting and Remembering.....	35
The Millet System and The National Identification Process in the Ottoman Empire.....	37
Creating Homogeneity Through Demographic Engineering	40
The Historiography of Turkish Nationalism	45
National Music Policies: “Citizen! Sing in Turkish”	49
After 1915: Armenians of Turkey.....	57
Remembrances on Armenian Music.....	62
Chapter 4:
The Armenian ‘Musicking’ Community in Istanbul.....	67
Yerki Bari Khump (Song and Dance Ensemble) Performances:
A Cultural Recovery of Istanbul Armenians	68
Folk Dances as the Experience of Collective Remembrance	71
‘Soviet Style’ Armenian Folk and Ashugh Music.....	74
Representations on the Booklets of Yerki Bari Khump Performances.....	78
Limitations in Freedom of Expression	81
Singing in the Choir: From Ritual Context to the Stage.....	84
Echoes of Anatolian Armenian Musics: The Knar Ensemble	94
Urban Armenian Echoes in Istanbul	97

Chapter 5:
Gomidas Vartabed and the Debate of Authenticity in ‘Armenian Music’	101
The Spirit of ‘Armenian National Music’	103
‘Authenticity’ in Armenian Music	109
Chapter 6:
Performing Homeland by Performing its Music.....	125
Musical Identity of Onnik Dinkjian.....	127
Imagining and Performing ‘Homeland’ in Diaspora.....	129
“The Soul of Diyarbakır is in All Our Hearts”.....	142
Chapter 7:
A Musical Narrative Lying in Artostan	149
First Musical Expressions	150
Experiences in the Turkish Popular Music Market.....	152
Night Ark: No Need to Become One More Charlie in America	154
Armenian Navy Band: Bringing the Ship to the Mountain (Ararat) in a City Without a Sea.....	157
Chapter 8:
Epilogue	167
References	171